FOREWORD

With a great deal of wit the co-editors and the staff have knit together all of the activities and events of this past school year into this edition of the Maroon and Gold. The Seniors started the school activities with their magazine sale. Class of 1962 surpassed all previous senior classes by selling the grand total of $3500 worth of magazines. As they reached each goal in their sale, various seniors won small trophies in recognition of their superior salesmanship. These delightful little knit wits will be showing up in various sections, as the year's events are featured in the Maroon and Gold.

DEDICATION

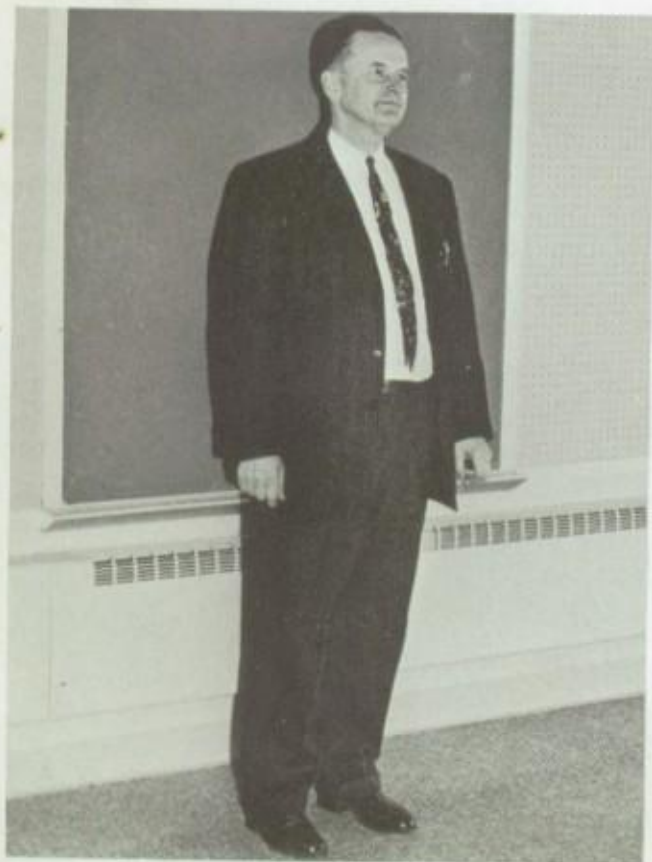

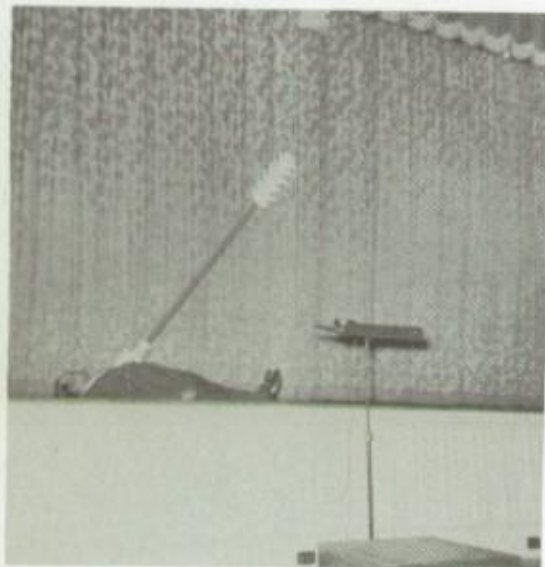

JULY 1, 1944 TO JULY 15, 1961

Dear Mr. Adams:

In these seventeen years: How many thousand WPCS students have you supervised in these 17 years? How many teachers have you helped to assume their duties at WPCS? How many parents have you met? How many alumni have you kept in your mind and in your heart? How many programs have you helped to plan at WPCS? How many times have you enthralled the children with your story telling at assembly times. How many miles have you covered in the central district? How many steps did you take day after day, as one addition after another has been added, and even a new elementary school, to house the ever-increasing number of WPCS students?

You may not find answers to these questions on this page; but you will find here words of sincere gratitude and appreciation for these past seventeen years.

Thank you,
The staff, faculty,
personnel and Student body at Whitney
Point Central School.

Did you brush them today?

This case looks serious!

Please, not while I'm working.

SENIOR BAND

Senior Band started off the summer with the Central New York Firemen's Convention Parade in Endicott and the Broome County Fair Parade in Whitney Point. School started, home football games and pep rallies began during the months of September and October. Halloween approached, the Senior Band was on hand to play for the parades sponsored by the Rotary. Beginning of the December band played for the senior play. December was the beginning of pep rallies and basketball games for band members. Soon it was May and time for the highlight of the year, the Spring Concert. Memorial Day came and the band again showed its colors in the parade. Last and saddest for the 9 seniors, which the band lost, were Baccalaureate and Graduation.

COLOR GUARD

Color Guard formed last year has seven girls who led the band in parades and carry the flags for games.

SWING BAND

Swing Band consists of the more proficient members of Senior Band. They practiced during the first few months of school so that by the time of the Student Council dances after the basketball games they were prepared to provide dance music for the occasion. Always a high-light of the Spring Concert, the Swing Band concentrates on preparing for this event as soon as basketball season is over.

MAROON AND GOLD

Another piece of wit was knit together by the students of the Maroon and Gold staff as it went into its twenty-second year of recording history at Whitney Point Central School. In June 1940 the Maroon and Gold came out as a loose-leaf project sold by Intercollegiate Press. Since that year it has progressed to a hard cover one-hundred and ten page portrayal of school life for about 1771 Whitney Point Central School students. Thanks to the Chenango Studios, Frank A. West Company for printing and about 70 advertisers, about 775 copies Maroon & Gold 1962 once again have been sold to subscribers for $2.00 per copy.
